Formatting a Formal Essay

This is a sample first page of an essay that follows the MLA style guide. To cite your sources of information and format the layout of your essay, you should follow one of two styles guides: MLA or APA. MLA stands for Modern Language Association and APA stands for American Psychological Association. At university, courses in the humanities prefer the MLA style but courses in the social sciences prefer the APA style. At Campbell Collegiate, all courses recommend the MLA style in the formatting of your text and the citing of your sources of information. For more detailed information on MLA style guides, visit either the “Campbell Style Sheets” link on the Campbell Collegiate website or the “MLA Formatting and Style Guide” link on the Purdue Owl Online Writing Lab website.
